

Relationships between the Early Years Learning Framework and Australian Curriculum

Cross-Sectoral session for Early Childhood Educators

The Association of Independent Schools of Western Australian (AISWA) and the Catholic Education Office of Western Australia (CEO) are pleased to provide this cross-sectoral session for early childhood educators, presented by acclaimed early childhood consultant and writer, Jenni Connor.

Jenni is the author of Foundations for Learning, the ACARA/Early Childhood Australia paper which describes the relationships between the EYLF and Australian Curriculum. With a focus on the connections between these two prominent reforms, this session will be highly relevant to all early childhood educators (Pre-Kindergarten to Year 2). Jenni will also outline the essential elements of high quality early childhood practice.

WHEN: Thursday 23 August, 4.15 – 5.45pm.
Registration and afternoon tea from 4pm.

WHERE: Catholic Education Office,
James Nestor Hall, 50 Ruslip St Leederville.
Signage will direct participants to the afternoon tea venue on arrival.

COST: Free

RSVP: Essential for catering purposes. Registrations close Tuesday 14 August.

Jenni Connor has been an early childhood teacher and superintendent, primary principal & curriculum manager and writer. She was a member of the Consortium developing the Early Years Learning Framework (EYLF) and has advised and written for the Australian Curriculum. At the request of Early Childhood Australia (ECA) and ACARA Jenni developed the paper Foundations for Learning which describes relationships between the EYLF and the Australian Curriculum. Jenni has been contracted by the Australian Institute of Teaching & School Leadership (AITSL) to develop film illustrations of high quality early childhood practice in relation to the National Professional Standards for Teachers, including some examples from WA. Jenni has particular expertise in early childhood education, literature and literacy and curriculum for the first years of school.
